As salute to her 199th birthday, Wilmington Minutemen were among several cannon crews to fire a seventeen gun salute to The Constitution. From Ft. William on Castle Island in South Boston they fired all the cannons associated with the Wilmington Minutemen and the Royal Irish Artillery. The oldest commissioned naval vessel in the world was turned around on the Fourth of July. The tradition of several years had been interrupted for three years as "Old Iron Sides" was refurbished. From the Wilmington Minutemen, shown here, are Bob and Hope Paulsen, Jim and Joyce Murray, Capt. Steve Leet, Paul Nett, Bill Hitchcock, Jim Stewart, Jerome Connor, John and Miah Newman and Wilmington's First Gunnery Officer Frank Curley.

Tewksbury asks and hopes Wilmington will say "No"

by Jeff Nazzaro

The Wilmington Board of Selectmen played host at Town Hall Monday night to their counterparts from Tewksbury, who were in town to discuss the possibility of an access road from Rocco's (in Tewksbury) dump through Wilmington.

But Tewksbury Selectmen want an access road through Wilmington like they want a giant dump in South Tewksbury - they don't. In the end, Wilmington denied access, voting instead to support their neighbor's quest for an Interstate 93 ramp to be linked by an access road from the dump across Tewksbury-owned land. That support will include pressure on congressmen to back a 93 ramp.

"I think the only way is for everyone to get on the bandwagon and put as much pressure on congressmen from communities," Tewksbury Selectman Richard Hanson said. "I don't want to impose nothing on any other community that I wouldn't want in mine."

And Wilmington played along, partly because that is what Tewksbury wanted, but mostly because Wilmington Selectmen don't want a lot of heavy dump trucks using an access road to Route 125.

Asked his opinion near the close of the discussion, Town Manager Michael Caira said he would "urge the [Wilmington] Board of Selectmen, if they will take up the matter, to support the ramp option and no trucking through the community."

Tewksbury needs a ramp before it can seriously entertain a proposal from BioSafe Corp. to "mine" the landfill, a process Tewksbury Selectman Kevin Anderson said would yield a separation of ferrous metals, woods and soils for removal, bringing the dump down to 20 percent of its current capacity. It would then be cleaned, lined, refilled with clay taken from the third harbor tunnel, and capped.

The clay business and a newly clean site are both cost-free advantages to the state, Anderson said, and go a long way to what he said was MassHighway Dept. support of the ramp proposal.

Problem is, the Federal Highway Administration apparently is balking and wants Tewksbury to explore other options, including access through Wilmington. Tewksbury wants the ramp, thus the not-quite-so-earnest request for access.

"In every option that the town [of Tewksbury] has looked into, it all has predicated on that ramp," Tewksbury Selectmen Chairman Tom Conlon said.

The ramp would fall between the Dascomb Road exit in Andover and Wilmington's Route 125 ramp and would be temporary - up just as long as it takes to clean the dump, which Anderson quoted BioSafe as estimating at 10-12 years.

Currently, the dump is accessed through a small road off South Street, which Conlon described as "a small, country road." Officials and residents of the highly populated South Street don't want heavy truck traffic there. At the same time, it appears BioSafe is uninterested in creating that traffic on such a road.

While Tewksbury Selectmen made much of the BioSafe proposal, they also made clear that a deal is a long way (and at least a 93 ramp) off.

"It's just one of our options and shame on us if we don't look at all of them," Conlon said in response to Judy Fittery, a South Street resident who opposes both use of her road and the BioSafe proposal.

One of those options was to see if Wilmington would accept an access road. They wouldn't, which was just fine with Tewksbury. Now both towns will turn to their congressmen, for Wilmington Peter Torkildsen, for Tewksbury Marty Meehan, to try to get a ramp in place.

Joint Chairs - Tewksbury Selectmen Chairman Tom Conlon (l.) and his Wilmington counterpart, Jim Rooney, divide a laugh among their members during a joint meeting of the two boards Monday night in Wilmington. Actually, with Conlon and Rooney in the middle and their respective town managers next to them, the arrangement then alternated between the two towns (photo by Jeff Nazzaro).

Riders will get tips at Rocco's

by Jeff Nazzaro

A couple of close friends and everyday people from Wilmington, one a hairdresser, the other a waitress, are pooling their resources to help in the fight against AIDS. The hairdresser will sacrifice her body and a lot of time; the waitress will give up a night's worth of tips.

Camille Mochi, who works at Sal Sannizzaro Salon on Newbury Street in Boston, together with friend and coworker Cary Mann, is training and raising funds toward participating in the Boston-New York AIDS Ride Sept. 4, 5, 6 and 7 to benefit the Fenway Community Health Center in Boston.

That's right, Boston to New York City, 327 miles, on a bicycle, in four days - 80 miles a day. And to qualify, each participant must raise at least $1,500 by Aug. 1.

In preparation, Mochi and Mann have been out cycling every morning around the Charles River along with two-hour trips to the gym. On weekends, they take 40-50-mile training rides.

And while it's not easy, Mochi said she'd rather pay now through real training than later through real agony.

"I'd like to do [the ride] and enjoy it and not suffer through it," she said, adding while pulling her left short sleeve over her shoulder and revealing a nasty raspberry courtesy of a spill off the bike, "All this is not without its aches and pains." The sore muscles are not quite so visible.

But of course it will all be worth it and Mochi knows any pain she endures is nothing next to that of those she is helping.

"One of the reasons I'm doing this is it's a great cause," she said. "I have a lot of friends who use the Fenway. It's something I needed in my life. It feels really good."

Mochi gets her dedication and inspiration for training directly from Mann, who invited her to participate in this year's ride. Mann himself has trained and run two Boston Marathons. Both have friends who have died from AIDS and who have HIV.

They still have a lot of work to do.

"We have a long way to go," Mochi said. "The next couple of months we really have to work to increase our mileage."

The two will find out in September if their training has paid off, though first they have to come up with the minimum donations. So far they have around $1,100 between them.

To that end, the salon they work at has been running raffles and the two cyclists are armed with pledge sheets whenever they happen to come across family and friends.

"People have been very supportive of us," Mochi said.

One of those supportive friends is Mary Barry, a waitress at Rocco's Restaurant.

Two years ago, Barry lost a close friend, a man she identifies only as Brian, to AIDS. When Mochi approached her with a pledge sheet, she decided to do much more than make a flat donation.

"Camille is one of my closest friends," she said. "Two years ago I lost one of my close friends to AIDS. So I'm doing this for Camille and for Brian."

What she will do exactly is donate every cent she receives in tips on Tuesday, July 16 to the AIDS Ride. And Rocco's will match the amount. Barry's shift starts at 5:00 p.m. and the day chosen also happens to be her birthday - so tip generously. She is also encouraging other waitresses at Rocco's to

Grant money available for employment training

Applications are now being accepted for training grants at the town of Wilmington's Community Development Program office. Approximately $60,000 is available to send 20 unemployed or under-employed Wilmington residents for training.

"These grants provide an opportunity for people to get training in order to improve their employment situation and income," Town Manager Michael Caira said. "The program will consider approval of any certificate program that can be shown to lead to suitable employment."

Under the program, accepted residents would be able to choose, where, when and in what field they wish to pursue a career.

"Grant recipients choose not only the type of training they want, but also the school they want to attend," said Cathy Beyer, the program's employment counselor.

In a similar program run by the town two years ago, Wilmington residents chose training in the fields of home health care, Novell network administration, floristry, office administration, accounting, and computer technology. That program dried up when Wilmington was denied renewal of its Small Cities grant.

The next employment assistance and training workshop will be held on Thursday, July 18 at 10:00 a.m. in the conference room at Town Hall. At that workshop, where Associate Director of Admissions for Middlesex Community College Claudia Lach will be the guest speaker, certificate programs offered by Middlesex and specific details on training grants will be discussed.

All Wilmington residents interested in training grants are encouraged by the town to attend.

To be eligible, a resident must register with the Community

Olin contamination site monitoring to continue

by Jeff Nazzaro

The Olin Corporation is inviting the public to an information availability session to present the main elements of an ongoing investigation into chemical contamination of groundwater in the area of both the company's 53-acre Eames Street Olin site and to the west of that site.

Olin issued an interim update report of the Supplemental Phase II Field Investigation of its Wilmington property last month and will now present key points from that to the interested public. The study was conducted to obtain additional data on the location and extent of the groundwater contamination off site of the facility.

The Phase II Comprehensive Site Assessment Report was issued in 1993, after which Olin representatives met with the Wilmington Board of Selectmen. At that time it was said that the contamination posed no immediate serious threats to the community, but that it should and would be monitored while a remedy to the situation was identified and eventually implemented.

The study by Olin has progressed with the oversight and supervision of the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection to establish the quality and characteristics of the groundwater in the area so that an appropriate remedy can be implemented.

According to Olin, the Eames Street facility was built in 1953 and operated by National Polychemicals, Inc., which itself was owned by three different corporations from 1953 to 1968, when it NPI was bought by Stepan Chemical Company. Stepan operated the facility until 1980, when Olin moved in. Olin closed the facility in 1986.

The facility was used to manufacture chemical blowing agents, stabilizers, antioxidants and other specialty chemicals for the rubber and plastics industry. The processes used to create these chemicals produced liquid wastes containing sulfuric acid, sodium chloride, sodium sulfate, ammonium chloride, ammonium sulfate chromium sulfate and others.

Prior to 1970, these liquid wastes were discharged to various on-site unlined pits, lagoons, ditches, and a man-made excavation dubbed Lake Poly. These discharged waste materials migrated down through the soils on the site to the bedrock surface below, and have formed a dense layer of inorganics including sulfate, ammonia, chloride and chromium.

The danger behind all this is possible contamination of drinking water.

A groundwater monitoring well east of the municipal well at Butters Row has shown an increase in the levels of sulfate in the deep groundwater. During the same period, the municipal supply well continued to test well within the state drinking water standards for sulfates.

The municipal drinking water wells are monitored by the town of Wilmington regularly as required by the Mass. DEP. No dangers to residents have been reported.

Olin has proposed a three-point workplan for the site consisting of the following:

- Installation and sampling of additional monitoring wells in the Maple Meadow Brook wetland area.
- Expanded groundwater monitoring program for the municipal drinking water wells and the existing monitoring wells which are adjacent to the municipal wells.
- Analysis of data for the municipal wells and the monitoring wells to develop a predictive tool for groundwater quality.

Olin says it is committed to completing the site investigation, continuing ground and drinking water monitoring, conducting a remedial alternative study, implementing a selected remedy, identifying site development alternatives and keeping the community updated.

Funding for commuter rail in final budget

State Sen. Bruce Tarr announced Monday that funding in the amount of $4 million for the study, design, construction and property takings involved in the development of an enhanced commuter rail facility in the town of Wilmington was included in the final version of the Transportation Bond Bill.

"These funds represent an important part of Wilmington's ongoing downtown revitalization efforts," Tarr said. "My hope is that these funds will soon be released so the town may begin to implement their ambitious redevelopment plan."

As it stands now, that plan calls for the development of a mixed parking/retail use facility in Wilmington Square, along the site of the current train depot.

Crossing gates included

Additionally, an amendment offered by Tarr directing the MBTA to install gates at the three remaining ungated railroad crossings in Wilmington was also included in the conference committee's final report.

"The inclusion of this language within the final report of the conference committee will ensure that a glaring public safety problem has been addressed," Tarr stated.

Tarr thanked Suzan Foy, Brenda Irwin and other members of the Committee to Ban Train Whistles in Wilmington for all their efforts as well as Rep. Jim Miceli for his efforts in the House of Representatives.

Town to get $100K for snow removal

Rep. Jim Miceli last week announced that the towns of Wilmington and Tewksbury will receive funds from the Massachusetts Emergency Management Agency.

The MEMA successfully secured federal assistance for those cities and towns that were impacted by the severe storms of this past winter. The funds are expected to reimburse towns for snow removal costs.

According to Miceli, Wilmington is expected to receive $100,280 while Tewksbury will take in $71,070.

The snow recovery effort is managed within MEMA by its Disaster Recovery Group, which since Hurricane Bob hit in August of 1991 has assisted communities in all phases of disaster recovery.

JOB HUNTING HELP FROM UNCLE SAM

The expenses you incur looking for a new job even if you're not successful may be deductible if you meet certain criteria. The key issue: you must seek a job in the same trade or business as you are currently or were most recently working.

The covered expenses can be considerable, including the cost of preparing and sending letters and resumes, fees to employment agencies and consultants, transportation costs to and from interviews, phone calls, professional legal and accounting fees for contract-related advice, even out of town travel expenses and 50 percent of related meals and entertaining. It's smart to document expenses fully, including receipts or records of expenses and all correspondence regarding job interviews.

As miscellaneous itemized deductions, job hunting expenses are subject to a floor of 2 percent of adjusted gross income. (For high income taxpayers, total itemized deductions are reduced by another 3 percent of AGI in excess of $117,950.)

What's deductible, what isn't? Talk it over with the tax people at

Selectmen meet over Rocco's, then at Rocco's

by Jeff Nazzaro

Usually when the towns of Tewksbury and Wilmington get together it's darn cold and the occasion calls for football. Monday night it was not exactly cold, the uniforms were (mostly) shirts and ties and the playing field was Room 9 of the Wilmington Town Hall. The occasion? Garbage.

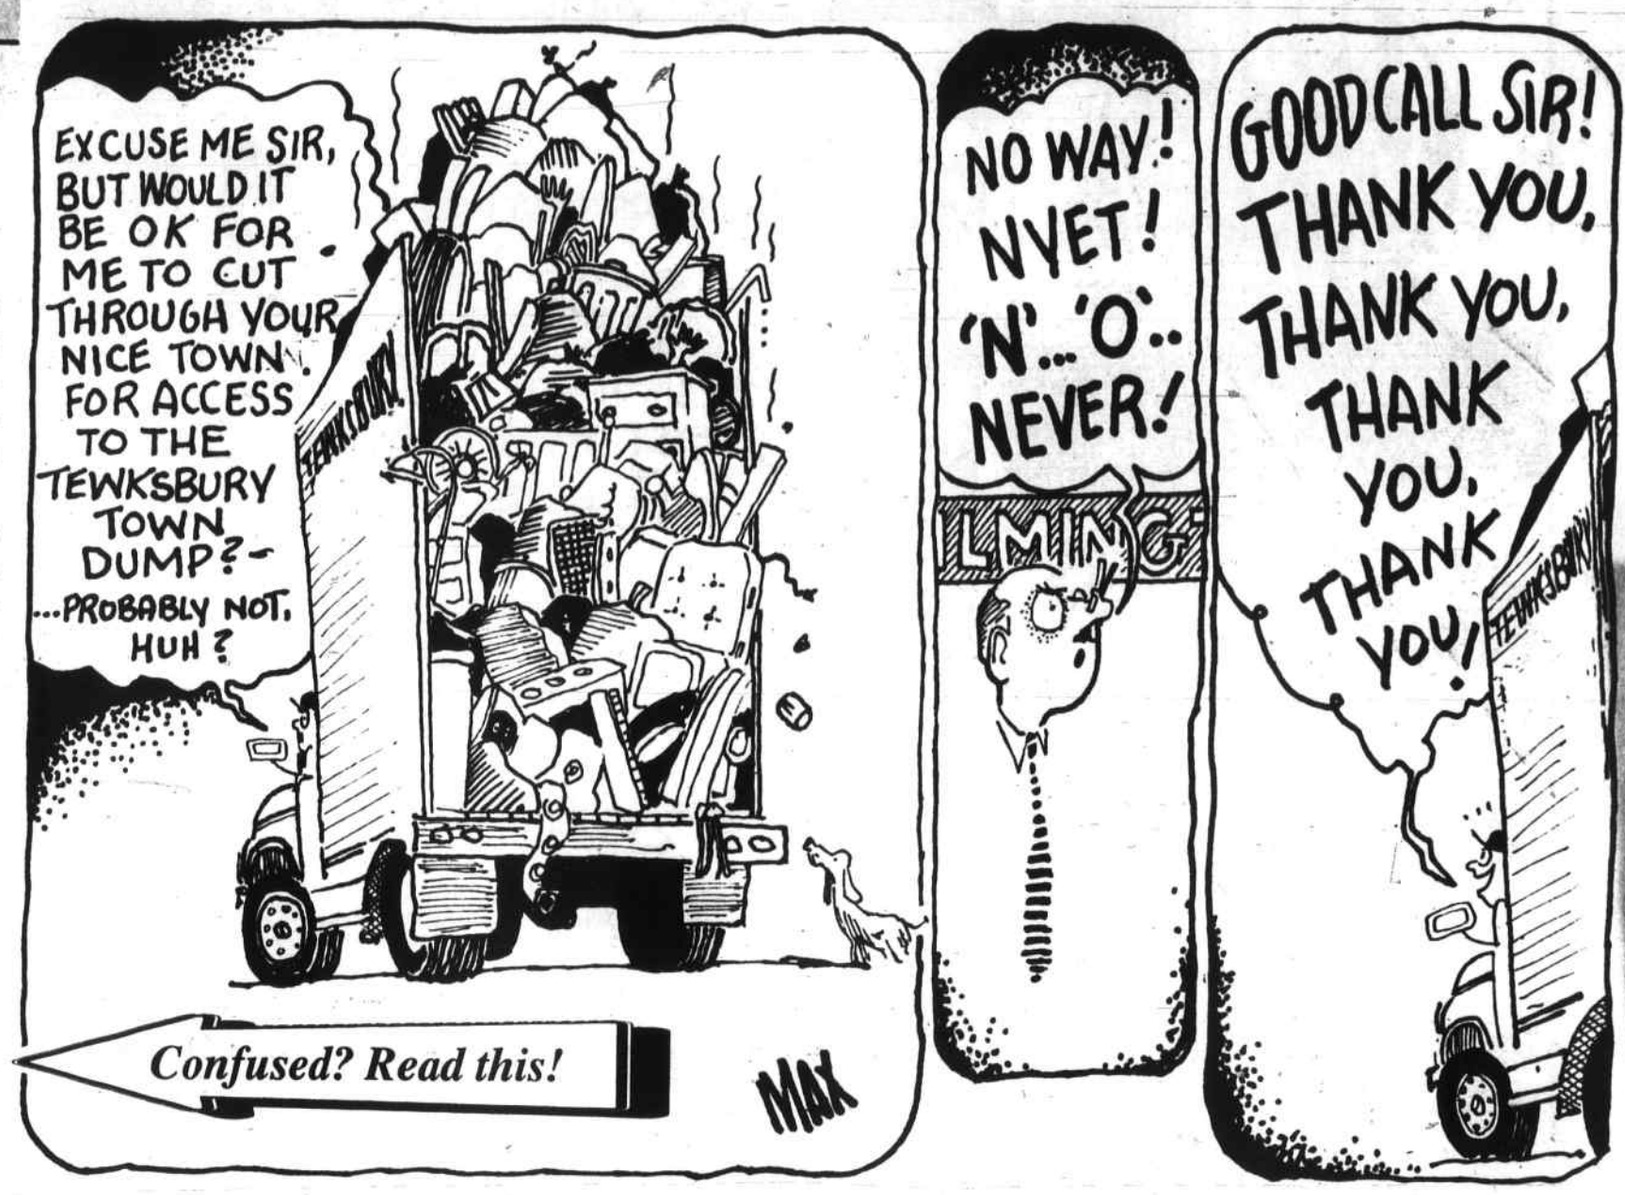

More to the point, Rocco's Dump and Tewksbury's efforts to purge the town of the polluted nuisance. Tewksbury sees the road to redemption as cutting through town-owned property to a new ramp to Interstate 93. The Federal Highway Administration has said, see if that road runs through Wilmington. These were the options. Both towns want the ramp, mainly because Tewksbury wants the ramp and Wilmington doesn't want Tewksbury trash floating through town on Route 125.

Going into the meeting, both teams knew the other's playbook, and while Wilmington held the ball, they were content to punt on first down - "no thanks, we don't want any." Tewksbury was happy to receive the lofted end- over-ender and will run straight back to the feds with it: "that Wilmington defense was mighty tough and we just couldn't get through."

That may soften the front lines of the FHA defense, but Tewksbury will still need a powerful fullback or two to power the ball home. With MassHighway ready to roll, state legislators are on the sideline now in favor of congressmen. Both Tewksbury and Wilmington, and hopefully Andover, will try to enlist the help of theirs for the purpose.

The meeting itself was a mostly pleasant affair with members behaving graciously towards one and all. And after, most of both boards and both town managers communed at Rocco's - the restaurant in Wilmington, not the dump in Tewksbury for some post-meeting, friendly chat and refreshments.

A little earlier at Town Hall, it was proposed the two boards get together again in September, which may happen. And though the meeting was nice, and somewhat productive (at least they got on public record what was needed - a yeah, we'll help you out by not really helping you out), and while a quarterly get-together between the two neighboring boards of selectmen seems a right good idea, the Tewksbury-Wilmington meeting we all really want to see goes down once-a-year on a cold cold day in late November.

The 4th in Vegas? Can I get a hot dog with that?

by Jeff Nazzaro

A couple of weeks ago I extolled the virtues of the 4th of July as a holiday celebrating not only the birth of our nation a couple of hundred years ago, but also the best our culture has to offer. Then I got out of town. In the process, I managed to miss the 4th.

Staying primarily on U.S. soil and missing the 4th is a little like being out of town for Earth Day - kinda hard to do. But still, for the second straight year, I opted to take my vacation during 4th of July week. The reason for this is simple: it's the most convenient time work-wise for me to bolt - everything going on in town fits neatly onto the Common (or Livingston Street Park).

This year, I had occasion to visit the southwest of this that we call home, the United States of America, and in the course of 10 days, spent time in no less than four foreign nations: Mexico (an afternoon in the border town Nogales), the Navajo and Hopi Nations (the Hopi is contained within the Navajo and together they encompass an area of stark and awesome beauty near the Grand Canyon the size of the state of West Virginia with a population roughly equal to that of Lowell and Tewksbury combined) and Las Vegas.

It was in Vegas that I missed the 4th. Yes, I was in Caesar's Palace on this most sacred of national holidays playing G'nip G'nop with red chips with a large Hawaiian gentleman named Tang. Some fun.

Meanwhile, in the clockless, flashing labyrinths of perverse joy known as your average Vegas casino, 8 o'clock became 10 o'clock became 2 o'clock became "do they really sell those 1/2 -pound hot dogs at Slots A Fun at four in the morning like Eddie Andelman says? They do.

Somewhere in all of it all, the Fourth came and went. It was somehow fitting. I wrote two weeks ago of how the Fourth was our least commercialized major holiday and there I was in the city where everything, even the free drinks, have a price tag (if you don't tip one of those couldn't cut it as a showgirl cocktail waitresses you have a better chance of finding Bugsy Siegel singing Karaoke duets with Jimmy Hoffa in the Purple Polynesian).

I did check the local paper, the free Las Vegas times and the odds on the Patriots to win the 1997 Super Bowl (25-1 in case you're wondering) and found nothing intimating anything in the way of a 4th of July celebration. Perhaps it happened and I missed it. Maybe I was a part of it and I missed that. In any case, maybe next year I'll postpone my travel plans. From what I've heard, I missed another of the best celebrations in the nation - right here in my own back yard.

The subject of the complaint had left, but Ritchie found a little surprise with a white stripe down its back, near the rear door. "Ritchie was not at all pleased with the situation and neither were his fellow officers when he returned to the station."

Letters to the editor

A great job on the 4th!

Dear Larz:

Special thanks to a great team of workers who make a fun-filled week available to Wilmington and others.

Meals, music, activities and especially family days with emphasis on kids are appreciated.

A special thanks to family members of the committee who share their spouses by supporting their efforts. Meetings go on year round and then this week is completely taken up by being on "duty" at the common - a great job!!

Joan & John Dey

Conlon's Outdoors columns have a real understanding

Dear Larz:

I have lived in Wilmington for two years.

My wife and I, at the time we purchased our home, were looking for a small town with strong community ties. Wilmington has proven to meet all our hopes and dreams. For the most part, local businesses and local government provide the services and answers we need day to day.

The Town Crier and Bill Conlon's Outdoors column have a real understanding of our community. I enjoy the detailed information on local issues, but most of all, Bill's insights on the local hunting and fishing. Lost in many communities is the appreciation for the outdoor pursuits.

As Bill points out, sportsmen and women are fast becoming the bad guys. The denial of infringement of our American heritage (hunting, fishing, firearm ownership) is, in effect, a denial of our Bill of Rights. I look forward to researching our legislators' voting records and finding candidates who have greater respect for our guaranteed freedoms.

Please keep us informed on the issues affecting sportsmen. I spent some time last fall in Harold Parker hunting for pheasant and if time allows, deer this year. Any information on the best areas to hunt in the park would be greatly appreciated.

I also offer my thanks to Capt. Larz Neilson for always remembering our soldiers and sailors.

Thanks for keeping the outdoors alive in our minds every week.

Sincerely,
Ed Larkin

Anyone know of an available apartment

Dear Larz:

As a 17-year resident of Wilmington, I've often heard of the lack of available rental property.

This spring, as a result of marital problems, I have been forced to seek an affordable apartment. The results are not encouraging.

I have been very involved with the community for the past seven years (somewhat less so recently). I am sure that I get as much as I give from the town, but it seems a shame to lose such a community asset (a participating citizen) due just to a lack of rental property.

As a community there is a real need here and I urge you as a community to address this problem.

In the meantime, anyone know of an available apartment?

Strength in numbers!

Dear Larz:

We of Lowell M-POWER think that it is most unfair to not allow some Tewksbury State Hospital inpatients who have full privileges to come to our chapter meetings. We feel it is highly irregular to let only one patient come to our meetings when we know that others are being denied their rights to attend.

The members of M-POWER do not understand why patients with the same status are not allowed to have the same off-grounds privileges. This is a serious complaint against the Tewksbury State Hospital for not having one consistent policy in regards to allowing inpatients to come to M-POWER meetings in Lowell.

We at Lowell M-POWER are aware of the unfair situation stigmatizing inpatients in Tewksbury. However, with not being able to go out into the town, patients are not being empowered to help themselves as part of their recovery.

It appears to be barbaric in the way the "rounds team" decides the inpatient privileges. The "rounds team" consists of two social workers, two nurses and a doctor that manages the day-to-day routine of the hospital wards. The administration could review their policy for those certain patients with off-grounds privileges to better direct the "rounds team."

We want freedom for the patients to be able to enjoy their off-ground privileges and take in the benefits of belonging to Lowell M-POWER. M-POWER stands for Massachusetts People/patients Organized for Wellness, Empowerment and Rights.

Our organization will continue to advocate for mental health consumers as to how attending our chapter meetings can be positive for their recovery. Our motto is that we have strength in numbers! M-POWER will always stand up for consumers dignity and rights.

Sincerely yours,
Lea Moran and Cathy Skinner

Lowell M-POWER

RMLD offers security lights

Life can be stressful enough without worrying about lighting around your home or business. That's why the Reading Municipal Light Department is offering its residential and commercial customers the opportunity to install security lighting through its street lighting program.

According to Paul Carson, RMLD Chief Engineer, any customer who is interested in this program can contact the RMLD and a site visit will be arranged. During the visit, the RMLD will determine where the security lamp should be installed on the property. Each lamp must be installed on a pole owned by the RMLD and can not be attached to the house or building.

The monthly charge for a 50 watt light on an existing light pole will average $6.50 and customers will be billed monthly. If a pole needs to be installed to support the lighting fixture, the average monthly cost will be $10.25. Prices are determined by the fuel charge and will vary each month as the fuel charge changes.

"This is a great opportunity for homeowners and business property owners to light up the areas around their buildings," Carson said. "We want to work with our customers to make them feel safe and secure in their own neighborhoods."

For more information about the security lighting program, contact the RMLD at (617) 944-1340 at ext. 256.

Honoring Korean War Veterans

A ceremony will be held at the Massachusetts Korean War Veterans Memorial, Charlestown Navy Yard on Saturday, July 27 at 10 a.m.

Everyone is invited to attend. The ceremony will commemorate the 43rd anniversary of the cease fire in Korea, and the 3rd anniversary of the dedication of the Massachusetts Korean War Veterans Memorial.

The ceremony will honor 129,000 Mass. veterans who served on active military duty during the Korean War, those who died, those who survived enemy prisoner of war camps and the 128 still missing in action.

The honor roll listing of the memorial contains the names of 1508 Mass. veterans who died while serving their country between June 25, 1950 and January 31, 1955. The 1508 names include 647 killed in action, 128 missing in action, 73 died in prison camps, 74 died of wounds, 49 non-battle casualties and 537 died in service.

At the conclusion of the ceremony at the memorial, members of the Korean American community will entertain those attending with a variety of Korean music, dances and costumes in the area adjacent to the Memorial.

It was pancakes with a flourish for Frank and Karen West (left side) and their daughter Colleen and their guests Bill and Nancy Robinson along with their daughter Kristina and Margarite Little. The occasion was the Wilmington Minutemen's pancake breakfast on the common. The minutemen commandeered the gazebo for the "executive dining".

Minuteman Mike Shine stood guard to make sure they cleaned their plates. In all more than 270 people had breakfast with the Minutemen Sunday morning, most, however, were forced to endure the school cafeteria tables.

Delivering blackmarket gas

by Capt. Larz Neilson

The world is probably uninterested in the history, etc. of Saudi Arabia. A recent explosion in that country brings many items to mind, for this writer.

Fifty-three years ago this writer paid a visit to the Saudi port of Bahrain, only a few miles from Dharhan where 19 Americans were killed on June 23. He had just delivered 10,000 tons of cargo to a place in northern Iran, which was to go to Russia, over the desert and over mountains. Ask Tony Galinis of Tewksbury. He was in the American Army in Iran, helping to deliver that cargo.

The visit to Bahrain was for the purpose of buying fuel oil. Over 7,000 barrels were purchased at an amazingly low price.

There was a surprise - the secret dealings between the longshoremen of Bahrain and of Fremantle, Western Australia.

This writer happened to glance at the foredeck, during a short stay in Bahrain, and longshoremen were loading barrels of gasoline. It was stopped, immediately, but none was taken ashore. When the ship left that port there were 51 barrels of gasoline on the foredeck, a tremendous target for any enemy vessel or airplane.

Somehow this writer did not order that gasoline thrown overboard.

The ship's orders were to go around South Africa, and then to a port in Brazil. But orders like that could be changed, by secret code messages to shipmasters, delivered from a radio station in India. Each shipmaster had to apply that code to every message from that radio station.

Two of three messages arrived nearly every day. All were decoded by every shipmaster on the Indian Ocean. All read "Go to the port where you were on ----- --."

Sometime after having crossed the equator a message arrived for the ship this writer commanded. The port was where the ship had been on a day in May -- was Fremantle, Western Australia. And in that port longshoremen came on board and unloaded the 51 barrels of gasoline.

Dawn appeared sometime later, to this writer.

It seems there had been a secret agreement between people in the shipping industry in Saudi Arabia and people in the shipping industry in Fremantle. That gasoline was for the "black market" of Fremantle.

Shipmasters in the port of Bahrain did not know that their ships were to go to Fremantle! But people in the shipping industry had a good agreement with people in that port.

Plenty of gasoline for the black market!

That smuggling of gasoline had been going on for years!

Those people started back before the days of World War II, and it was something which did not have to stop just because of the prohibition of communication. The people of Bahrain trusted their fellow businessmen in Fremantle.

When the war was ended, they knew, Fremantle would pay them their part of the smugglers' gold.

Note: here is a difficulty in writing of events which occured in Saudi Arabia or Iran or Iraq. Such difficulty exists because of the habit, in some cases of using Aspirates, which do not show up in the English language.

Bahrain is such a word. There is, in the spelling, a sound which is indicated by the use of the letter "h." Call that sound an "Aspirate."

Thus, the speaker says nothing when he comes to the "h." But he breathes a little harder!

A similar "aspirate" is found with the letter "u," and with some others. It is a condition which makes somewhat difficult the proper pronunciation of some Arabic letters.

Bored? – Read this!

"I'm bored," is the familiar lament as the summer comes to an end. St. Elizabeth's is there to help and will be holding its annual Kids' Fun Day Saturday, Aug. 24 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Wilmington Common, Route 62.

The day will feature many free demonstrations including Officer Xiro (Tewksbury's police dog), gymnastics, karate, and Wilmington's fire truck. There will be games, arts and crafts tables for kids, the Whooper Hopper and much more.

Tickets are seven for $5 and can be purchased at the common. With most activities requiring only one ticket a table, this day is a bargain.

Lunch will be available including hot dogs, pizza and cold drinks. Anyone taking a non perishable food item for the Wilmington Food Pantry will receive a free ticket.

Call 658-5243. In case of rain, the event will be held at St. Elizabeth's Chapel, corner of Forest Street and Aldrich Road.

Tewksbury Funeral Home • 1 Dewey St • Tewksbury • 851-2061

The Tewksbury Funeral Home was founded in 1956 by Walter J. Deputat and his wife Gloria A. (Roux) Deputat. Together, they transformed this Victorian style single family residence, dating from 1895 to its current form. The name was given for the Town, rather than for the family name, primarily to indicate the desire to serve the entire population, rather than a particular ethnic or religious segment of the community.

Walter and Gloria entered into semi-retirement in 1984, when they passed ownership to their youngest son, Joel. Since that time Walter and Gloria have divided the year between Tewksbury, Florida and New Hampshire. Joel has continued in the tradition established by his father of personal service within the community, while continuing to upgrade the facilities.

The focus of the funeral home is to provide a complete range of funeral service. "The focus of our service is the bereaved, rather than the deceased," says Joel. This explains the warm, home like appearance within the funeral home. Contrast this with a typical funeral parlor with its rows of chairs arranged to face toward the deceased. "Our arrangement is much more conducive to the healing process, which is, before all else, our primary concern."

In response to a growing demand by today's population, the funeral services offered have expanded into pre-planning of funeral services. With the ability to "customize" a package to fit a particular need, and the addition of membership into the "Forethought" Group, the Tewksbury Funeral Home continues to offer the best value available to today's consumer.

Personalized service, beautiful building, central location, and staff experience are but a few reasons why more people choose the Tewksbury Funeral Home in their hour of need.

Local Bands

by Jeff Nazzaro

I recommend calling ahead to each club or bar for cover charge info and to find out what time your favorite band will be going on.

A couple of rock bands with local ties and solid sounds are workin' hard at area clubs throughout the summer, giving fans of live music multiple small venue/small price choices.

The bands Star Collector and Grand Design have both been featured in the pages of the Town Crier in the past year and are each building on past successes while getting their acts primed for the future. Both are worth a definite look-see.

Star Collector, featuring Wilmington musician and studio guru Bruce Bennett, is fresh off a free, July 3 gig on the Wilmington Common and will take on the Sidewalk Cafe ((508) 465-8213) at Salisbury Beach July 11 and 12 before heading to Classics ((508) 535-4080) at the Rte. 1 Holiday Inn in Peabody for a single show July 19. Star Collector rounds out their July calendar with a three-show booking at Daddy O's ((603) 624-2876) in Manchester, N.H.

Wilmington power trio Grand Design cranks out your favorite covers every Thursday night at Bleachers ((508) 744-4328) in Salem, Mass. On July 20, GD will rip into what has become their home bar, North Reading's The Bull Pen (664-2103). Don't miss the Pen's FREE PIZZA!!!

And don't miss the chance this summer to see and support local music.

ARE YOU PROTECTED?
by Edward H. Wilkens

MORTGAGE PROTECTION

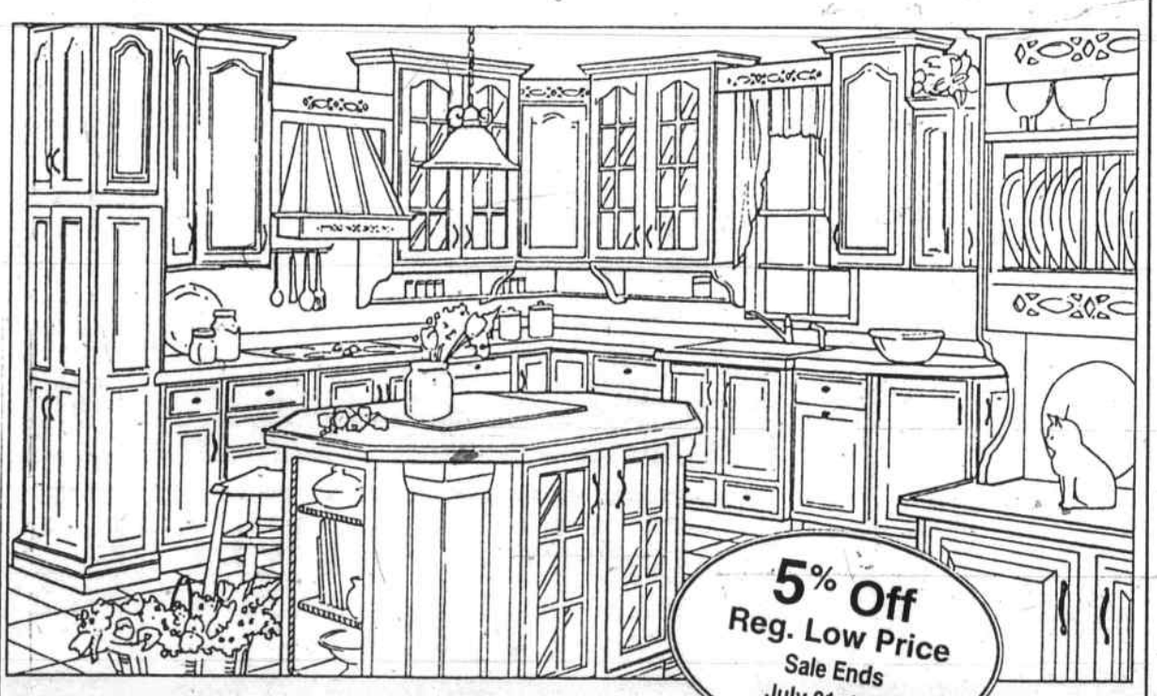

QUESTION: If you buy homeowners insurance, does that mean if you die your mortgage loan will be paid in full?

ANSWER: You are confusing homeowners insurance with mortgage protection insurance (a form of descending term life insurance). Homeowners insurance will insure your property against almost any conceivable damage or accident that can happen in, on, around and even away from your home. But it will not pay off your mortgage upon death.

Reducing term is about the lowest cost life insurance policy you can buy because the insurance protection decreases each year with the reduction of your mortgage.

Lighting the Way...
...to Your Security
A little light can go a long way in helping to make you feel safer and more secure in your own home. That's why the Reading Municipal Light Department offers a security lighting program for its customers.
All you need to do is call the RMLD at 617.944.1340 and ask for the Chief Engineer at extension 256. A representative from the RMLD will make an appointment with you to visit your home to see where the security light will be installed. If everything looks okay, the RMLD will be back to install the light as soon as they can. If an additional light pole needs to be added, they'll let you know that, too.
Because this is part of the street lighting program, you'll receive a bill each month based on the fuel charge. The bill will vary each month as the fuel charge varies.
For information about this program, call the RMLD at 617.944.1340, ext. 256.

"I firmly believe we need to put more money into research and facilities for AIDS patients," Barry said.

The entire amount raised from the ride, the biggest of all such rides in terms of dollars raised, will do just that. Last year, the ride brought in $6.5 million, which came in small packages from people like Camille Mochi, Cary Mann and Mary Barry doing big work and making real sacrifices.

"What we're doing absolutely helps out," Mochi said. "Helping a charity like this is really important."

Wilmington senior topics

Commissioners meet Tuesday

The Commissioners meeting will be held in the Senior Center Tuesday, July 16, beginning at 1:30 p.m. An update by the commissioners on the four socials held in the Senior Center, will be given. Remember, the commissioners meetings are all televised. Seniors present at the meetings are allowed to ask questions of any commissioner. The seniors have no vote on any issue; only the commissioners have that privilege.

Seniors certainly have the right to give their input on any subject discussed at a meeting, but unless they attend the meetings they will not have the opportunity to speak about anything before it goes to a vote. The average time spent at a meeting is between half an hour to an hour.

Summer shop class

The summer shop class will be held every Tuesday from 9 a.m. to noon. It is nice and cool downstairs. Working on a little toy for the fair or for a grandchild is a pleasant way to spend a morning. There are a couple of senior men eager to get started, who would like a few more men or women to join them. One can be sure of having some good conversation and a few laughs, while seeing a few pieces of wood turn into a toy. Why not join the class and see for yourself?

Dr. Mullin

Dr. Mullin, podiatrist will be in the medical room Wednesday, July 17 starting at 9 a.m. He will be treating ailments of the feet. Please call the center for an appointment by July 16; 657-7595 or 658-2258.

Dance class

The dance class will be held from 1 to 2:30 p.m. in the function room.

Nurse Ann will be in the medical room starting at 1:30. She will be checking blood pressures and giving diabetes tests. With the arrival of summer we will be attending many family cookouts. That means probably over indulging in many foods containing too much fat and sugar. We should try to remember, diabetes and cholesterol are two silent illnesses that can become active in our blood with no warning.

If not detected early they can become serious medical problems. Diabetes can cause a major stoke or even death. A simple blood test given by Ann next Thursday will let you know whether you are a bordering diabetic. If so, Ann will advise you to see your doctor. In most cases he/she will put you on a diet that can bring the diabetes under control. Before eating those delicious desserts, have Ann give you a diabetes test.

Ceramics

The summer ceramics class will be held Thursdays beginning July 18. Those who were not able to join this very popular class on Wednesday may be free to join it on Thursday. All one has to do is go to the center. Green ware is not free, but the class is.

Sun on the eyes

Another problem that arrives with summer is the danger of the summer sun on our eyes. Any ophthalmologist will tell you to wear sunglasses to protect your eyes from cataracts. He/she will tell you long hours in the sum without proper eye protection increases your chances of developing eye disease. A cataract is a clouding of the normally clear lens of the eye. It can be compared to a window that is frosted or fogged with steam, that you cannot clear away. It is recommended that you wear 99-100 percent UV absorbent sunglasses and a large brimmed hat whenever you are in the sun long enough to get a suntan or sunburn.. You should choose glasses labeled to "block 99-100% UV-A and UV-B light." The price has no bearing on UV light protection. That comes from a chemical coating applied to the lens, not from the color or darkness of the lens.

Polarized lenses cut reflected glare and are useful for driving and walking. They have nothing to do with UV light protection. Some types of polarized lenses are now being combined with a UV blocking substance. Large framed wrap around sunglasses can protect your eyes from all angles, as opposed to ordinary eyeglass frames that allow light to enter. Before you buy a pair check that they are 99-100% UV protection.

Signup for the July 26 picnic will be Friday July 12. The social is free, but don't' forget, Grace will need a lot of goodies.

You and your aging relatives

Winchester Hospital offers a support group for families who are caring for an aging relative. The group focuses on information sharing, identifying health issues, and offering peer support for those in a similar situation. Social workers facilitate the discussion.

These support groups take place on the second Thursday of each month from 7 to 9 p.m. in the activities room of Winchester Nursing Center, 223 Swanton St., Winchester. The next meeting will be held July 11.

This support group is free and no registration is required. For more information, call Greta Roberts at 617-756-2633.

All-Star softball team needed a touchdown and a field goal

by Jamie Pote

With what could have easily been a football game, with the score and many hard hits, the Wilmington 10-12 year-old Major Softball Little League All-Star team lost its opening game of the tournament to Stoneham, 21-13.

Wilmington had leads of 8-2 and 9-5 before Stoneham scored 17 runs in the last two innings, mainly on walks, a few errors and a three-run homer.

Wilmington will now play Thursday at Rotary Park in Wilmington at 5:45 against either Woburn American or Woburn National in the five-team double elimination bracket.

Head coach Mike Winn said his team had fun, but he knows that they can play a lot better.

"We really hit the ball well. But I think we were a little nervous because the walks and errors hurt us. But we have a home game now and that should be fun," Winn said.

Stoneham was ahead 2-1 after the first inning, but Wilmington struck for seven runs in the top half of the second. After two bases loaded walks and a error, Julie Cronin singled in two teammates and then Jackie Rubino doubled in Cronin to end what was thought as a monster inning.

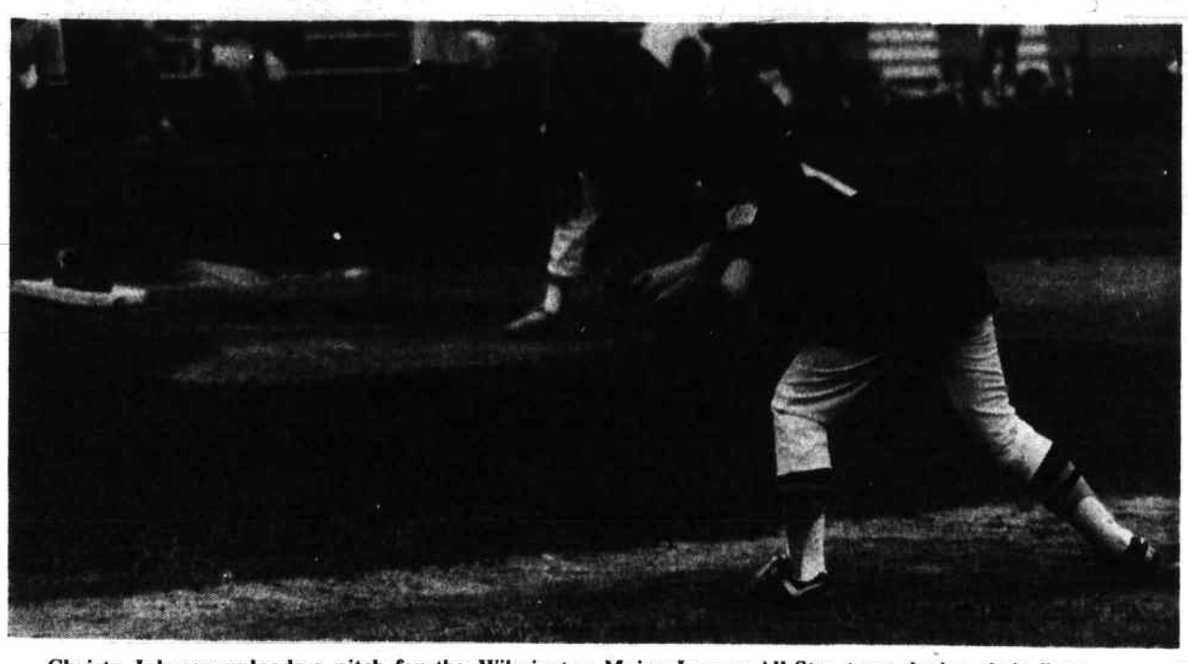

Stoneham scored on in the bottom of the second and Wilmington returned the favor in the top of the fourth, but Stoneham started to come back with a three-run bottom of the third which came on five walks and a two-run single.

After Wilmington stranded runners on second and third with no one out in the top of the fourth inning, Stoneham took away the momentum when they scored nine runs to make it 15-9. Those nine runs came on three hits, four walks, a hitsbatsmen and four errors.

Even though Wilmington struggled defensively the last two innings, they showed off some great leather throughout the game. Catcher Jackie Rubino was stellar behind the plate, blocking everything in sight and showing off her solid arm. She was also 2-for-4 at the plate. Cronin, also had a great game both offensively and defensively. With the bat, Cronin was 3-for-4 which included a three-run shot over the left fielder's head and a two-run single up the middle for a 5 RBI game. She also made some fine plays at the hot corner.

Also playing well was shortstop Sara Collings who roped the ball everytime she got up to the plate with a 3-for-4 game. She made some great heads up plays in the field, also. Finally with the bat, Lisa Antinagelli was 2-for-4.

Christy Johnson and Meghan Fudge split the pitching duties. Johnson was impressive when she struck out five batters in 3.1 innings, but she was victimized by a small strike zone. As was Fudge as they combined only to give up seven hits.

The bigger they are, the harder they hit

by Jamie Pote

When a 12-year old Little League Baseball player makes it to the All-Star team, the player realizes that the opposing team might have a few players bigger than him. But when the Wilmington Major League All-Star team went up against Arlington in a loser's bracket game on Monday night, they didn't expect to go up against a few players who were six feet tall and over 200 pounds.

Arlington was too big and too good and that's why they beat Wilmington 18-1 to eliminate them out of any further play. They had many hard hits including many tape measuring home runs.

"I guess it was never meant to be with this team," said head coach Bill Wallace. "But I think nervousness had a lot to do with it. Arlington was a great team - they were better than us. But it would have been nice to win at least one game."

Last Friday, Wilmington opened the tournament with a 6-1 loss to Acton-Boxborough. David Rappoli pitched very well striking out nine and yielding just six hits, but Wilmington just couldn't get the big hit when it needed to. George Gooding hit a home run in the losing effort.

Senior League Softball team blanks Wakefield

The Wilmington Little League Senior Softball All-Stars opened their tournament season with a convincing 14-0 win over the Wakefield All-Stars.

Wilmington got an outstanding pitching job from Robin Mainini, who went the distance, giving up just one hit while striking out 11 Wakefield batters.

Wilmington's offensive barrage was led by Kristin Thomas who went yard, and added a double and scored one run, and Emily King who had three hits and scored three runs. Other contributors for Wilmington were Melissa Wolfe with two hits and one run scored; Maura Lynch with a double and one run scored; Robin Mainini, two hits and one run scored; Candace Sousa two runs scored; Michelle Lemos two hits and one run scored; Erika Persson, one hit and two runs scored; Katie May Holloway one hit and two runs scored; Charleen Tamilio one run scored.

Wilmington got good defense from Erika Persson, who made an outstanding running catch to preserve the shutout. Wilmington also got defensive support from Colleen Cahill and Katelyn Sughrue.

Wilmington will next travel to Woburn as play in the District 13 Tournament continues this week.

D.A.R.E. offers white water trips

The Wilmington D.A.R.E Program will sponsor two white water rafting trips for eighth grade students.

The trips will be run by Wilderness Plus, owned by Wilmington resident Richard Barry. The rafting will take place on the Deerfield River in Monroe Bridge, MA. The Deerfield is one of New England's most challenging rivers. It does not have the size of the larger rivers of Maine, but it is technically more difficult.

This is the third year that the D.A.R.E Program has sponsored these trips and in the past they have been quite popular. The trips are limited to ten eighth grade students per trip and are being filled on a first come, first served basis.

This year's trips will be Saturday July 13 and Saturday, July 20. For more information and to sign up, contact Officer Chip Bruce at the Wilmington Police Dept. Criminal Bureau 657-8082.

UNDERSTANDING THE PURCHASE AGREEMENT

Whether it is several pages of big type or a few of fine print, a real estate purchase agreement is a serious document. In most areas, there are "boiler plate" forms that spell out what each party agrees to do by certain dates and what happens if either side breaks the contract. The best time to familiarize yourself with these forms is when you are beginning your search. Ask the Realtor for a copy of the purchase agreement and then review it, keeping in mind that it has the force of law. If you don't understand the document, consult an attorney. If there is a dispute between buyer and seller, a court will hold you to what the purchase agreement says, not what you thought it meant or what you thought the Realtor said it meant. There are several crucial points you should be clear about. What are the deadlines for loan application and obtaining financing? If you decide to back out because of the structural inspection report, can you do that? Do appliances convey? When will the closing take place? If you understand these clauses before you find the perfect house, you will avoid a lot of stress and minimize the likelihood of misunderstandings.

Great fireworks, little league games and Sox report card lead Chatter Box

by Jamie Pote

First Inning

Last week I didn't have room for my Chatter Box column, so I guess I will only use when I have room and/or if I have anything to say.

Anyway, I want to start the column off by giving congratulations to the Wilmington Fire Department for this year's Fourth of July Fireworks. They get better every year.

Second Inning

Summer is great, isn't it? I love it - the weather is perfect and I have my second high school season - that is, the little league all-star teams. In Tewksbury, their Little League teams are amazing. It seems every year, every single one of them does incredible. All of their games are very emotional and every fan seems to have their heart in their throats as every game goes down to the wire. Keep it up, Tewksbury.

As for Wilmington, two of their teams haven't played yet, while, one of the teams is eliminated, another lost its first round game and another has won its first round game. Hopefully, their will be a few more wins for each of the teams before its over.

Third Inning

Since I did it last year, I'm going to give my first half report card of the Red Sox. Here goes:

Tim Naehring A+: I'll admit, I didn't like him for the longest time, but I quickly changed my mind early in the season when he was the lone player hustling, all of the time. All he does is plays his heart out, hit and play tremendous defense. He deserves a gold-glove if he keeps it up.

Mo Vaughn A: He does everything you could possibly ask him to do except for field. He still can't. Hopefully, he will carry the team on his back in the second half to make things interesting.

Jose Canseco A: He is awesome to watch when he is healthy, isn't he?

Reggie Jefferson A-: He is not an outfielder which shows, but he gives everything he has, he never complains and he hits the crap out of the ball all of the time.

Roger Clemens B: I can't get over that he is 3-8 when he could easily be 10-3. But he is pitching well, but he gets hurt by the big home run.

John Valentin B-: My favorite player, and the best all-around shortstop in the American League and perhaps in baseball, has really improved defensively, but is inconsistent with the bat. He still could have good numbers, but look for him to have a huge second half.

Troy O'Leary C+: Another player who will have a monster second half. His biggest problem is having no arm.

Lee Tinsley C+: He is not you answer for an everyday center fielder, but he is not doing a bad job.

Wil Cordero C+: He will be the next left fielder, who will really hit the ball like he showed - he like the rest of the team won't be a gold glover.

Heathcliff Slocumb C+: I think I'm the only person who likes Garfield, but give him a break everyone can have a bad month.

Mike Stanton C: He is one of those players who has a lot of ability, but always chokes when the game is on the line. He has great stuff, but he never comes through.

Mike Stanley C: A great signing that has been terrible defensively and solid offensively. You can't blame this one on Duquette - Stanley hasn't done the job.

Jeff Frye C: I have followed him for several years now - he is a solid player. But he is really struggling now with the bat, so why doesn't he bunt a lot since he is a great bunter?

Milt Cuyler C-: The perfect back-up outfielder.

Bill Haselman C-: And the perfect back-up catcher.

Rich Garces C-: A solid pick-up who has been over used - but should be taking the place of the injured Stan Belinda - the right-handed set-up man. He strikes out a lot of batters and he is a ground ball pitcher. Joe Hudson is not the answer.

Joe Hudson C-: And speaking of Hudson, get rid of him while you can get something decent for him. He stinks.

Eric Gunderson C-: Bring back Tony Fossas.

Jamie Moyer D+: Is he really worth $700,000? A decent pitcher - money could have been spent elsewhere.

Vaughn Eshelman D+: If he changes his speeds and locations, he is a dominating pitcher. He has a very bright future, if he uses his head.

Tom Gordon D: He has been very inconsistent, but it looks as if he is starting to turn it around.

Tim Wakefield D-: I love him, but send him packing, bring up Jeff Suppan.

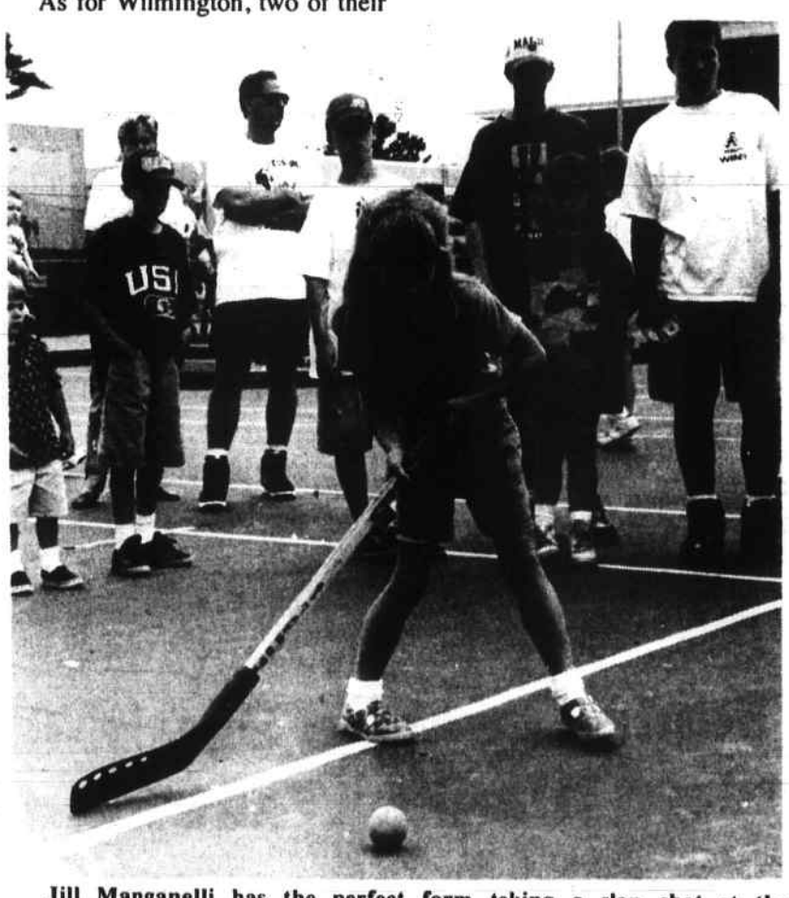

Aaron Sele D-: What happened? He is a totally different pitcher and person.

Incompletes: Stan Belinda, Mike Maddux, Mike Greenwell, Dwayne Hosey, Kevin Mitchell, Bill Selby, Jeff Manto and Alex Delgado.

Kevin Kennedy D-: Whatever happened to the word basics? I went to a game about two weeks ago - the Sox were down by three in the bottom of the seventh and runners on first and second with no outs with a struggling Jeff Frye at the plate. Val, Mo and Jose were on deck. He didn't bunt. That is one of many, many examples I can give of why he stinks.

He loves himself, he can't handle a pitching staff, he doesn't know when to use his pinch hitters and the team is struggling, so why not play the basics?

Dan Duquette C+: Moyer was a bad signing and the rest were good moves. The players are not coming through - he is.

The Tale of Boys and Frogs

by Bill Conlon

One of the neverending truths of this world appeared before me over the holiday week. I was delighted.

On the evening of the Fourth of July, I had my fiancé and daughter, and myself, parked on a blanket in a grassy field off Livingston Street, Tewksbury. There we awaited yet another epic fireworks display by the estimable Dick Romboli, who is to pyrotechnics what Mozart is to music. Truly an artist of quality.

As we were waiting for the house lights to dim, a kid suddenly poked his head above the grass and reeds not 20 feet away. Oh. Hello. The kid was down in the stream which splits the field, and we never knew he was there. Maybe 12 years old, jeans and sneakers, with a dark blue T-shirt and fat bullfrog in his right hand. Nice frog, buddy!

Why did I notice the bullfrog so quickly? How could I not? There's something unique about boys and frog, something eternal, even for boys sporting a touch of grey.

The kid showed me his technique, and he was pretty good! He dangled one hand, fingers fluttering, and while the frog was thus distracted he'd swoop in from the blind side to collar the croaker. Well done, lad!

I was that kid, in years gone past, and many of you were, too! There is a primordial urge at work here.

While my dad smacked a golf ball around at Green Meadow GC out in Tyngsboro, in the 1960s, this scribe served as caddy. Sort of. But while dad and the duffers executed their chips and putts -- a boring thing for any non-golfer to witness -- your humble narrator made a beeline to the nearest water hazard, there to squish around in breathless pursuit of amphibians, until dad bellowed, "BILLY! Let's GO!" Sigh!

Plump bullfrogs and green frogs in the mud, and lean, quick leopard frogs dashing unseen through the grass, except for a trail of moving stalks. Boys have had a fascination with frogs since long before Huck Finn made it public knowledge.

What a pointless game, but a great and ancient one, nonetheless.

Boys can't help themselves when it comes to frogs. The sight of two rounded eyes poking up through the muck sends a young boy's mind racing, and with no thought at all to cleanliness (snips and snails...) he's down on his knees, creeping up on his prey, with one hand drawn back for a cobra-quick strike. He may get a tongue-lashing later for all the dirt, but for the nonce there's game afoot! Right there! Grab him!

Some you catch, most you don't. Frogs have spent millions of years perfecting their evasion skills, so no mere mammal is going to beat a frog's reaction time consistently. An occasional capture, yes, but the frogs hold a decided edge in the won-loss column, which is why we still have frogs today. (I'll wager Cro-Magnon boys chased frogs too, but still the frogs survive.)

Sometimes the frog is taken home and shown off, preferably to little girls who shriek at the sight. Other times the poor amphibian is put to nefarious use, and may reappear in places where no right-thinking frog ever dreamed to go. School desks come to mind. And cookie jars.

But most often, the frog is given a detailed inspection, then put back into the swamp, unharmed. There really isn't much you can do with a frog, barring some French delicacy we've all heard about but nobody wants to try, and catching the frog is all the sport we need. Besides, if released unharmed the frog will get to work making more frogs, which makes for better sport tomorrow.

No, there is no urge to harm the frog. Just catching him is fun.

I was truly delighted to see that kid chasing frogs on the Fourth of July. I thought of joining him in the stream, but those twin laser beams searing the back of my neck made me think better of it. Oh, well.

Still, I know how much fun it is to lash out, then to feel something cold and slimy and alive in your hand. HA!! Gotcha!

Why do boys grab frogs? There is no reason, at least not a reason that girls could understand. Suffice to say that he's a frog, and I'm a boy, and we have this little game to play in the mud. That's all. Just a game.

I'm glad to see the game lives on.

Ghanooni and defense lead charge for Junior Americans

by Jamie Pote

The Tewksbury 13 year-old Junior American All-Star team did what they were supposed to when it opened up its first game against Lowell Callery last Tuesday night. They got great pitching, solid defense and they took advantage of their opponents mistakes.

Able Ghanooni limited Lowell to just four hits in the 7-2 victory which advanced the team to a second round match-up on Thursday with the site, time and opponent yet to be announced.

Ghanooni mixed up a slow sloppy knuckle ball with a sweepy curve ball added onto a live fastball to change the velocity and the locations very well throughout the game. He did walk seven batters and then he hit an additional two, but he struck out six - mostly when he needed one.

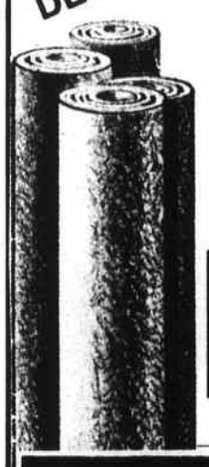

"The kids played well," said head coach Kevin Shea. "We got excellent pitching, our defense was steady and that is what wins ball games."

With Tewksbury leading 3-1 after four innings, Shea became very aggressive with his coaching tactics at third base. With two outs, he sent two runners on the same play as Lowell continued to throw the ball around - that proved to be the right call as that opened the door wide open to give them a 6-1 lead after four-and-a-half.

"I always try to be aggressive and I think it keeps the game more interesting and the players seem to enjoy more, too," Shea said.

Tewksbury only got six hits themselves, but they capitalized when it counted. Nick Gennetti, Jason Wagstaff, Dave Bunten and Brian Deshler drove in the runs with all but the last coming on RBI hits. Bunten was 2-for-4 including a single in the left center gap, a double and a deep shot that was caught in center field.

Bad first inning hurt Major American team

by Jamie Pote

One bad inning. Take away the first inning and they had them.

The Tewksbury Major American Baseball Little League All-Star team was very nervous from the get-go and that showed and that hurt as they lost 7-3. But thankfully it is a double elimination tournament so the team can relax a bit when they play on Friday.

Tewksbury faced off against Lowell Highland last Wednesday night. After Tewksbury was retired 1-2-3 in the top of the first on their home field, Poulin Field, Lowell scored six runs in the bottom half to give them a comfortable lead.

"You can practice until you are blue in the face, but nervousness is something you can't coach," said head coach Nancy Murphy. "I thought we hit the ball excellent and I was really pleased with the base running. But defense wins you ball games and we need to work on that a little bit. But they are a Big Hitting City Club."

Lowell started off the first inning with a single. The next batter reached first on a sacrifice bunt error which now had the tablesetters at second and third and no outs. A two-run single, a two-run homer, a double, walk and a two-run single was how the rest of the six-run first inning went.

But Tewksbury didn't roll over to die.

With runners at first and second and one out in the top of the second, Scott Brzezowski hit a deep shot to center field. The center fielder made a nice over the shoulder catch and he turned around and fired a perfect one-hop throw to third to nail Mark Palladino trying to advance. It was a smart heads-up player by Palladino - the center fielder made a tremendous play.

So Tewksbury nibbled in the second inning and came away empty.

But in the third inning, they struck for three runs to make the game interesting. Jimmy Scanlon reached first when he got hit by the pitch to start the rally. John Harrington's grounder to third forced Scanlon at second. After another out, Dave Scibilia doubled in Harrington to open the bank. Scibilia took third on an infield single by Jonathan Adams. Adams swiped second and Scibilia took home on a perfect double steal call to make it 6-2.

Marc DiGammerino kept the inning alive with a sharp base-hit to drive in Adams to make it 6-3. Lowell added one in the bottom of the third to close the game out at 7-3.

Scibilia and DiGammerino had two hits each as Tewksbury only had five hits as a team. DiGammerino also came in and pitched superbly in relief going five strong innings giving up just one unearned run on two hits and one walk, while, striking out seven.

Tewksbury will now play Friday against the loser of Billerica National and Haverhill with the site and time to be announced.

Wilmington celebrates the Fourth of July like no one else!

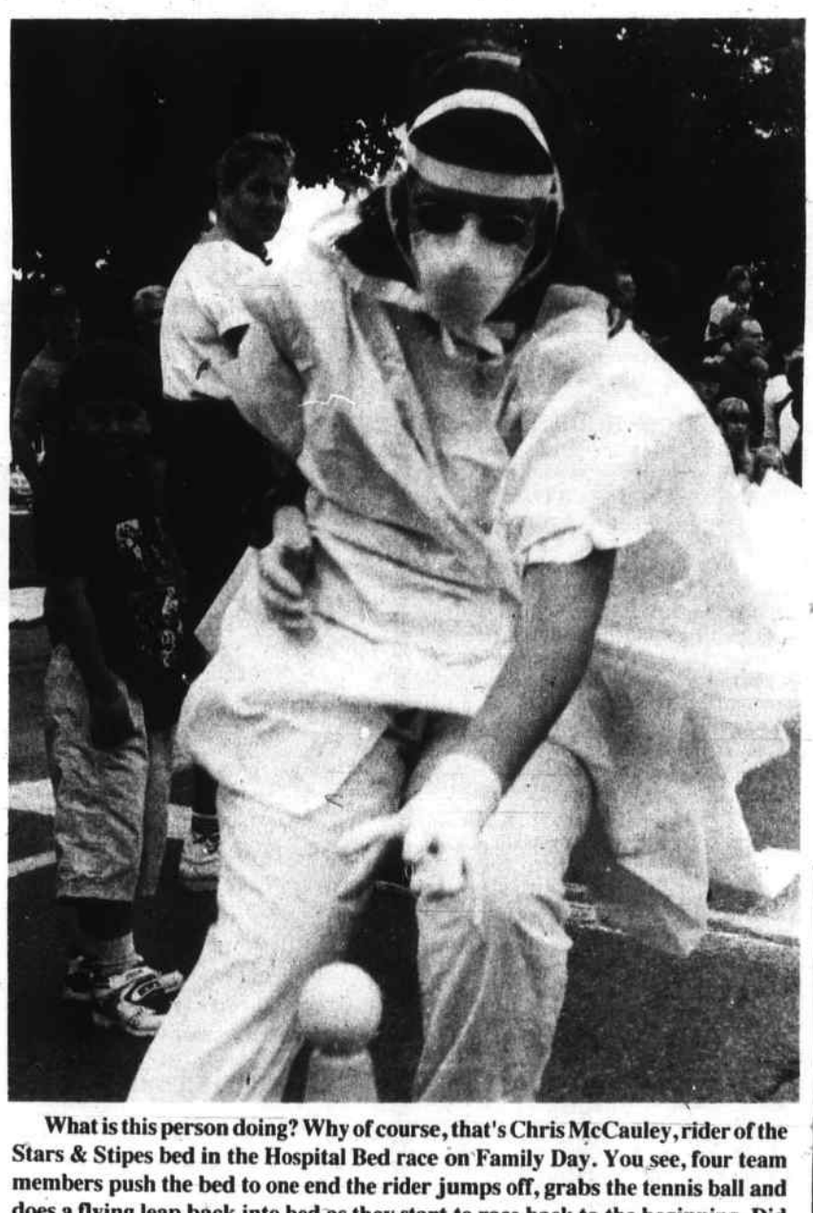

Heyyyyy, Macarena! That's the song, this is the dance, though it could just as easily be that the mosquitoes were getting really bad on the Town Common July 4 (photo by Steve Picano).

You bet they're having fun! Jillian and Rickey Fudge and Ashley Webber found a quiet moment for a hand of cards while participating in Family Day on Wilmington's Town Common on the Fourth of July.

What is this person doing? Why of course, that's Chris McCauley, rider of the Stars & Stipes bed in the Hospital Bed race on Family Day. You see, four team members push the bed to one end the rider jumps off, grabs the tennis ball and does a flying leap back into bed as they start to race back to the beginning. Did they win? Well, yes and no... they weren't the fastest but they were the best decorated and won preferred parking and dinner at Stelio's.

Karen McCabe makes a splash at Family Day July 4 on the common during the water bucket relay. Later, she would cajole the photographer to take a turn in the dunk booth and make a splash of his own - courtesy of a McCabe heater (photo by Steve Picano).

Win Great Prizes!

The second annual Middlesex East "Pets and Their People" photo contest has been going on for the past several weeks and it will continue through August. The initial one last year attracted over 350 entries and a similar format will be followed this year, plus a new category entitled "Look-Alikes" for those who feel they have a photo in which their pet(s) have a very real resemblance to their owners.

The first contest last year was a huge success and lots of fun for us at Middlesex East and our readership. The number and originality of photos was terrific and we expect the same this time. Get your camera out or go thorough your old photos and get your entry in. Today we publish several of the photos that we feel are representative or the type our judges would like to see.

The first place winner in the competition will receive a $100 Gift Certificate at Perfect Pet in No. Reading, with second place receiving $50 cash plus an area rug from B&D Carpet in Burlington and third place receiving a $40 Gift Certificate to Harrow's Restaurant. The special "Look-Alikes" category winner will receive $100.

The rules of the competition are very simple and there will be a number of local drop-off spots for the photos and necessary information. The contest deadline for entries will be Friday, August 16th at 10:00 am. The winners will be announced on Wednesday, August 28th in the Middlesex East section of your local paper.

There are no restrictions on what type of animal photo may be entered, just that it be a pet. Entrants are cautioned to place pertinent information on the back of the photo including name of animal, name of owner, address including street and city/town and a telephone number. You can see the full rules for the competition elsewhere on this page.

Contest Rules

1. Entrants must submit one, 3" x 5" card or paper including name of photographer, name(s) of subjects in photo, age (if under 18) address, profession (optional), and daytime phone number, along with photo.
2. Name, address, and telephone number should be PRINTED on the back of all photos.
3. One photo per person may be submitted.
4. Every effort will be made to allow photos to be reclaimed at central locations to be announced following the contest.
5. Entrants consent that photos become the property of Middlesex East Publications and may be used by Middlesex East in future editions and/or promotions.
6. Entries must be received at below locations on or before Aug. 16, 1996. The decision will be published on Aug. 28, 1996.

ANTHONY MANCONI

Folks are you planning a trip this summer? My sister Maureen went to France last year and before going she took a crash course studying French. My niece Joanne went to Italy and she also brushed up on her Italian. Tony Stack reviewed his Gaelic before going to Ireland last summer.

Well Folks, all that preparation was 'not enough' to ensure a wonderful time. They forgot how to say, 'Hello' and 'Thank You' and most important of all they forgot how to 'Smile.' It's the universal language that opens wide the 'Friendship Gates.'

Will Rogers said, "people learn through two things. One is 'Reading' and the other is association with 'Smarter' people." My Aunt Nora was looking over my shoulder as I was typing that gem and she said, "Chipper, I don't know anyone who has learned anything worth while reading Woodchips. I also don't know anyone who isn't smarter than YOU."

Dolly Parton said, "If you want to see a 'Rainbow' you have to put up with the rain."

Every month Kathy goes to a card shop and pays the electric, gas and phone bills. She then walks to the post office to buy a month's supply of stamps. The lines are sometimes long so, someone told her there was no need to wait in line because there was a stamp machine in

Canoe trips planned on Merrimack

The Merrimack River Watershed Council (MRWC) is hosting a series of free canoe trips, through October. The Council is a non profit enviromental group based in Lawrence, MA and Concord, NH, tha t works to protect the Merrimack River. The trips are open to everyone and offer a great chance to get to know the region's rivers.

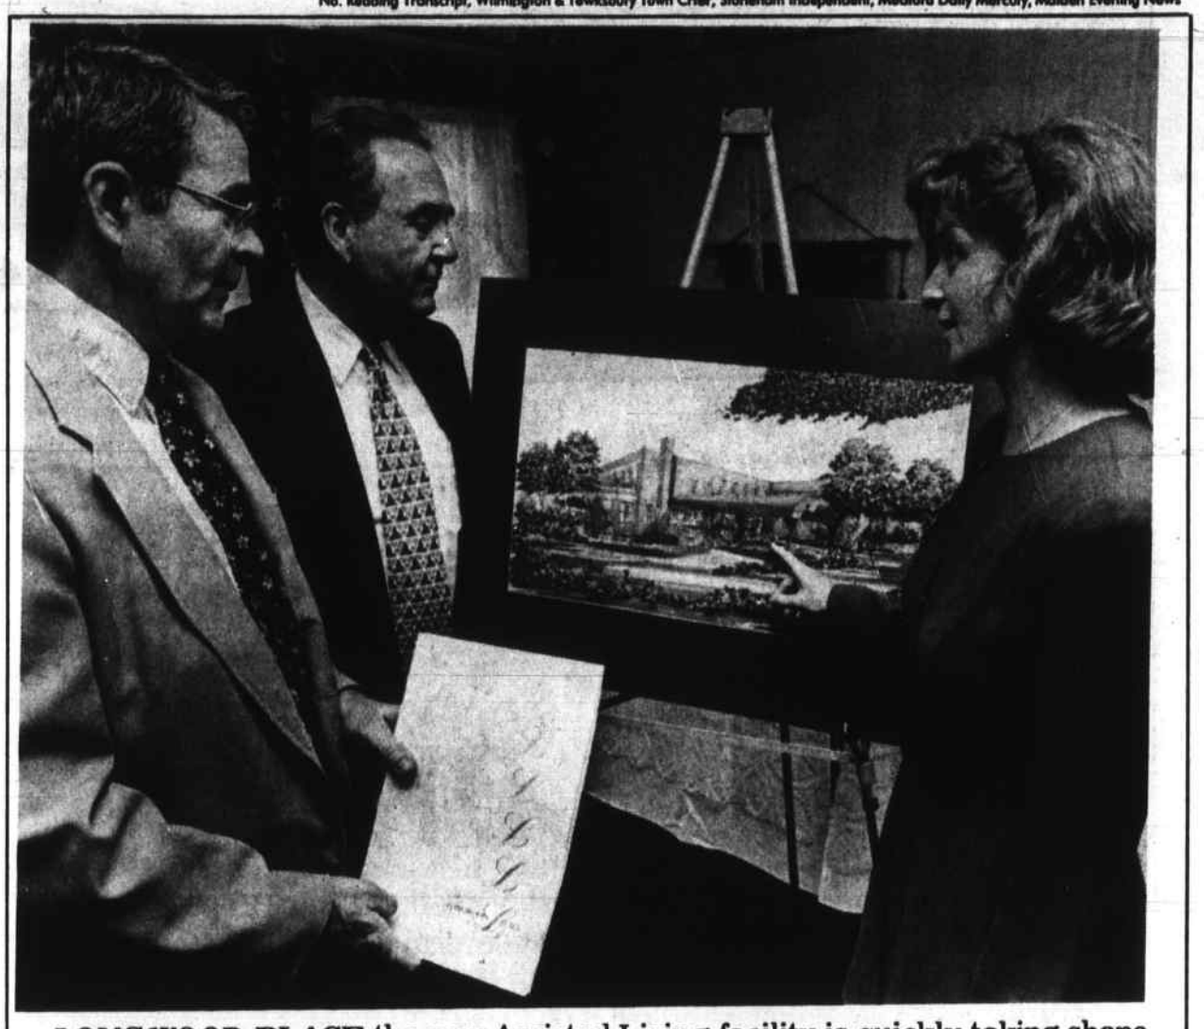

All Council trips have a theme, ranging from historical to bird watching to viewing fall foliage. All are excellent family outings and each trip is ranked according to difficulty. Trips are held rain or shine, and proceed at a leisurely pace.

There is a lunch break around noon (bring your own), and most trips end at 5pm. Small pets and children are usually discouraged, unless you are an experienced paddler. Everyone must have a life preserver and know how to swim.

No registration is required, and all trips are free unless otherwise noted. For more information and directions, call the contacts listed for each trip. A complete canoe trip schedule is also available. Call the MRWC for a copy at 508-681-5777. For Schedule updates, call the Council's "Canoe Hotline" at 508-685-5556 for a recorded message.

Most of this year's trips were organized by the MRWC, while others were coordinated by organizations within the watershed, including the SuAsCo Watershed Association, Sudbury Valley Trustees, Framingham Advocates for the Sudbury River, the Organization for the Assabet River, and Penni-Baker River Adventures.

This year, for the first time, canoe and kayak rentals are available from Outback Kayak 603-743-5009, and Winnie's Sailboarders School and Outlet 603-528-4110.

Burlington votes 'continuing care'

Senior housing zone approved

"Town Meeting voted 58-17 to create in the zoning bylaws an RC - Continuing Care District for senior housing facilities," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle." "Two amendments passed which directly affected the succeeding article on the warrant.

"Once the rezoning was approved, the plan of the Newton Group - which is proposing an assisted living facility on Mall Road behind the Somerset Bank, on a 5.2-acre parcel - came forward.

"The Newton Group's plan was dependent on the rezoning being adopted...."

No safe haven yet

"Citing problems with the property that were not described in the bid specifications, Brooks Pharmacy has announced that they are pulling out of the 25 Haven Street purchase," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"'We essentially were forced to cancel the purchase and sales agreement because of concerns about the liabilities,' said Peter Schmitz, director of Real Estate for the Rhode Island based company.

"Schmitz notified the Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD)... that they were canceling the deal to purchase the former RMLD headquarters...."

'A new image' in North Reading

"Residents of North Reading are in the unique position of being able to affect change on Route 28 if they choose to participate in the Community Planning Commission's Main Street Corridor Study," notes the "North Reading Transcript." "Now, some people may believe they have a better chance of becoming the next millionaire in the state lottery before they see improvements to Main Street in their lifetime. This is because they consider Route 28 to be unfixable and hopelessly out of date. Those who feel this way are resigned to the fact that Route 28 will remain stagnant into the next century.

"The more optimistic types, however, will remember the same arguments were bellowed when the issues of remodeling the high school and Flint Memorial Hall were the topics of the day or when the creation of the Hillview Commission and Ipswich River Park appeared to be an impossibility.

"And these optimists will have their opinions known because they will participate in a survey, printed in the 'Transcript' that will let their most desired 'must have' and 'would be great to have' requests for Main Street be told to those who need to know - town officials and the business community...."

Congratulations, Jim Buckley!

"What do you get when you cross a postal worker with a Lion who also happens to be a member of the Wilmington Recreation Commission? If you're Harry Cunningham, you get a night's worth of one-liners; if you're a member of the community of Wilmington you get your 1996 Good Guy - Jim Buckley," notes the Wilmington "Town Crier."

"For the 30th annual Good Guy dinner at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Cunningham proved up to the task, guiding the 200 people in attendance (a three-year high for the Good Guy event and capacity for the K of C Hall) through a spirited appreciation of Buckley and much good-natured ribbing.

"Buckley and his postal worker cohorts got it right off the bat.

"'The Unabomber was at it for 18 years and we lost five people,' Cunningham began. 'He could've wiped out the whole country if he used American Express. And aren't you frightened thinking about the packages that haven't been delivered yet?'

"Actually, Cunningham was still sorting out which name to use for Buckley. It seems Jim's (Joe's?) wife, Eleanor (Evelyn - no) calls Jim (Joe?) Joe while Doughboys in France during World War I called the Mack Trucks 'Bulldogs,' because they were rugged, tenacious trucks which almost never broke down. That's how the 'Bulldog' became the symbol of Mack Trucks.

Folks, the message here is, 'American workers' can build superior machines in any field of industry. We did it before and we can do it again. 'Made in America' can be a proud symbol of excellence again.

I said to my sister Maureen, "what the heck is the matter with you, you look bushed." "Look here Fatso," she snapped, "with the kids taking vitamins and me taking tranquilizers it's a losing battle every day."

My nephew Dennis Tully said, "I may not always be right but I know that I'm never wrong."

My cousin Mario DiMino from Brooklyn, New York told me that he took up 'English' in school as a 'Foreign Language.' He said there are slogans everywhere that say, 'Help Keep New York City Clean. Dump your garbage in New Jersey.'

Mario takes two brown paper bags to work with him almost every morning. The bag with the kitchen garbage he leaves on the train. The other bag (his lunch) he takes to work. Mario said that many times he makes a mistake and leaves the wrong bag on the train. He told me not to worry, "the way my wife cooks I wouldn't know the difference." I know what you mean Mario, my wife Kathy is the world's worst cook. She cooks 'carrots and peas' in the same pot.

Jim Mede refused to jump from a fifteen foot high platform into the water at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station. "What would you do if you were standing that high up on a ship that was sinking, wouldn't you jump?" the Navy instructor asked. "No!" Jimmy Mede shouted, "I'd wait until the ship sunk another ten feet, then I'd Jump."

Tony Stack and his bride to be waited as the clergyman announced, "if anyone knows why this ceremony should 'NOT Continue' speak up NOW." No one said a word. Tony tugged at the clergyman's sleeve and pleaded, "please, try again."

I don't know anyone with more 'Vim, Vitality and Vigor' than Larry Garabedian. George Gould however, gets up every morning and takes a 'Zap-Vim-Sock-o' and a 'Pow' pill then hops back into bed again.

Folks, have you noticed how many women have taken up golf? Well, there"s room for one more, Kathy has given up golf for 'Bowling'. She's doing 'GREAT,' she hasn't 'lost a ball' yet.

Lt. Steven Ford dispatched Officers John Daigle and Paul Crevoiserat to investigate a call of a 'dead horse' on Sigourney Street. They called back and said, "Lt. Ford, we found the horse but can't spell Sigourney Street for our report." "I can't spell it either" Lt. Ford said "so drag the dead horse a few feet onto Gore Rd. you wont have any trouble spelling that."

Middlesex East Sports Athletes & Activities

BY PAUL FEELY

It isn't often that 13 and 14 year olds are able to place their name in the record books, but that's exactly what the members of the WILMINGTON UNDER 14 GIRLS SOCCER TEAM has done, after capturing the town's first-ever state championship by beating Marshfield 2-0 on June 29 in the state tournament at Chelmsford High School.

After posting a 38-1-5 record throughout the season, Wilmington headed into the tournament final against Marshfield, which it had tied 2-2 the previous weekend. While the Wilmington players seemed relaxed before the game, their opponents arrived in a limousine, and appeared tense, which translated to a poor performance on the field, as Wilmington kept the ball in the offensive zone for over 80% of the game.

Wilmington goalkeeper MEREDITH CIPRIANI recorded her fifth straight shutout to get the win, while NICOLE MACIVER and LISA DELLASCIO scored the only goals that Wilmington would need.

The success of this team is expected to transfer over to the Wilmington High team in a few seasons, as most of the players move up a level together this fall.

SPORTS SHORTS

•MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA QUESTION: The situation is this: Roger Clemens is on the mound, and Mike Piazza is at the plate during an All-Star game. Clemens strikes out Piazza on 11 straight pitches, despite the fact that there are no balks called, and Piazza doesn't foul off any pitches. How is this possible? The answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•Congratulations go out to the READING YOUTH BASEBALL MAJOR LEAGUE INDIANS, who completed a two-game sweep of the Braves recently to take the World Series title. In game 1, TOMMY O'ROURKE hit a grand slam in the fifth inning, while in game 2 MIKE OTTARIANO hit a second-inning grand slam.

•Medford Mustangs southpaw ARI KOUFOS led his team to a 7-0 win at Playstead Park. Koufos allowed six hits and three walks en route to the win, which gave the Mustangs sole possession of second place in the Intercity League.

•Who needs nine innings? The MALDEN BAMBINOS had a few people asking that question recently, after the team sent 14 batters to the plate and scored nine runs in the first inning en route to a 14-6 win over Medford at Pine Banks Park. Shortstop RON REPOZA went 2 for 3 at the plate with 4 RBI, while pitcher RYAN HALE went 2 for 2 with 3 RBI.

•Need some clues to help out with the above-mentioned trivia question? The situation could involve any two players from either league, not just Clemens and Piazza.

•The MIDDLESEX KRUSH, an 18-and-under softball team featuring many local athletes, will be in action throughout much of July.

Next weekend the team will play in Worcester as part of the Pony League Tournament, and then take to the field again July 19-21 in Cambridge in the American Softball Association New England Regional. Then in August the team will head for Binghamton, NY, to play in the American Fastpitch Association Tournament.

Locals on the team include Winchester's BONNIE BENSON, Reading's MEGHAN MCKINNON, and Stoneham's KATHLEEN MCLEAN.

•ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: A runner was on base with two outs when Piazza came to the plate. The count went to three balls and two strikes on five straight pitches when the runner was picked off, ending the inning. The next time the team bats, Piazza leads off with a clean slate, and again the count goes to three balls and two strikes on five straight pitches, before Clemens strikes him out on the 11th pitch. Congratulations to those who correctly figured it out!

School Notes

by Phyllis Nissen

'Leaving together'

Ritchie says goodbye

"The class of 1996 and principal Dr. John Ritchie both said goodbye to Winchester High at the school's 146th graduation exercises," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Ritchie is leaving the high school to become superintendent-principal of the Lincoln-Sudbury Regional High School. His graduating seniors are leaving to go on with their education, or into the workforce, and on with their lives.

"Ritchie said he probably felt the closest with this graduating class because they were both leaving together.

"Both were encouraged to face the future with courage by speakers James Maher, senior class president, and Kathleen Bodie, chairman of the School Committee. Maher urged his classmates to always take up life's challenges with confidence because 'Your best is much better than you think.'"

Dever says hello

"Mayor Robert Dever, the city's first-term mayor, told Woburn H.S. students this week at the Woburn C.C. that they would all have a 'better understanding of the process' by being part of Student Government Day,'" notes the Woburn "Times."

"The 26 students, led by student-mayor Gregory Martell, were dinner guests of the Woburn Rotary Club.

"'The key issue here is trust,' said Dever, noting the public trust and the trust for public officials is paramount to the success of any society.

"'What we're hearing today is that there is a loss of trust among people,' said Dever...."

Upward bound in North Reading

"Seventy-five percent of the 110 graduating seniors at North Reading High School intend to further their education at one of 48 colleges, universities or technical schools throughout the country, the Guidance Department has announced. In addition to the 82 students continuing their education, 28 will enter the work force," notes the "North Reading Transcript."

Home schooling growing

"Charts on the wall in the basement of the DiMatteo home denote stages of History and the development of civilization," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle." "As Brettany and Shayla DiMatteo study each stage, they also learn about an historical person to match that time in History.

"Brettany, 9, and Shayla, 7, are being home-schooled, taught by their mother, Pam.

"As the two girls expand their knowledge of History in increments, it mirrors, somewhat, the increase over the years of the amount of students being home-schooled in Burlington.

"Compared to the roughly 3,425 students in public school, the number of home-schooled students is small. But it is certainly growing...."

If you'd like to read about your favorite school, student or teacher in "School Notes," please send school newsletters and other relevant information to Phyllis Nissen, "School Notes," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867. We welcome student writing.

Realtor Names in the News

LOCAL REALTOR, PATRICIA FOLEY, Carlson Real Estate/Better Homes & Garden, received her Realtor pin from the Eastern Middlesex Association of Realtors President, John P. Bulman, GRI, at the Association's recent Business meeting.

Patricia Foley of Woburn joins EMAR as realtor

WOBURN June 24, Paula Suffredini, Manager of Carlson Real Estate/Better Homes & Gardens announces that Patricia Foley is a member of The Eastern Middlesex Association of Realtors.

Being a member of Eastern Middlesex Association of Realtors distinguishes Patricia as a Realtor. Public recognition of an honorable and honored title-- used and promoted since 1916, the term Realtor has taken on a special meaning in the minds of the public. The term has a connotation of competency, fairness, and high integrity resulting from adherence of a lofty ideal of moral conduct in business relations, exercised within the guidelines of the Realtors Code of Ethics. This is a valuable image that the public is seeing today. The realtor who exemplifies this image will reap rich rewards. Both Realtors and Realtor Associates are accorded the privilege of wearing a distinctive insignia to signify the honorable designations they bear.

Mrs Foley is a homeowner in Woburn, living in the Central Square area with her husband Bob, and her daughters, Suzanne, age 6 and Katherine, age 3, as well as their cat, Bobby, age 2. Patty is an active member of the Wyman School PTO. She brings a great deal of related experience with her to the real estate business, having previously been employed as an Account Executive for Epsilon Data Management, in addition to three years of owning and operating a shoe store. Patty has attended U. Mass, Amherst, and Boston College.

As a Carlson Real Estate/Better Homes & Gardens Sales Executive, Foley will have access to the Better Homes and Gardens Home Marketing System, Home Merchandising System, Home Buyer System and Home Information System– four process oriented approaches to buying and selling homes. As the exclusive Better Homes and Gardens representative in Woburn, Carlson Real Estate currently maintains 40 offices located in Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine. Carlson Real Estate was formed 28 years ago in Marblehead and enjoyed a fine reputation for service and professionalism throughout its impressive history.

Beat the summer heat safely and economically

With summer in full swing, it's time to crank up the air conditioner and prepare for those outrageous electric bills. Right? Wrong! Just follow these simple tips from the professionals at Home Depot and not only will you save energy and money, but you'll also beat the heat.

Install a programmable thermostat.

Programmable thermostats let you set an operating schedule that your air conditioner will follow. For example, you leave for work at 7:30 am and your thermostat adjusts to 80 degrees while no one is home. At 5:00 pm your thermostat returns to 76 degrees. You come home to a cool house, yet the air hasn't been on during the day while you were not home. Programmable thermostats are ideal for people who are on a set schedule. They are easy to install and cost between $30 - $115.

Add a dehumidifier to your room.

Dehumidifiers pull moisture out of the air in a room. When the air is drier, it feels cooler. You can set the thermostat a few degrees higher than normal and still feel comfortable. Dehumidifiers cost approximately $200.

Check you insulation and air filters.

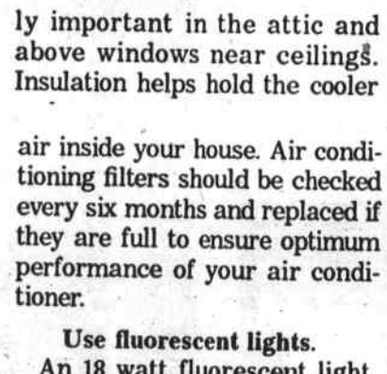

Proper insulation is especially important in the attic and above windows near ceilings. Insulation helps hold the cooler air inside your house. Air conditioning filters should be checked every six months and replaced if they are full to ensure optimum performance of your air conditioner.

Use fluorescent lights.

An 18 watt fluorescent light bulb uses 76 percent less electricity than a regular 75-watt bulb and produces the same brightness. Overhead lights and lamps can be easily converted to accept fluorescent bulbs. A fluorescent bulb and adaptor cost approximately $16 and replacement bulbs, which last about six years, run about $5.

Get your refrigerator ready for summer

Your refrigerator and freezer work harder than ever during the hot, humid days of summer. Here are tips on general use and maintenance, anticipating summer stress.

Location, Location

Locate your refrigerator or freezer away from direct sunlight or from a heat source such as range, dishwasher or heating vent. Don't put your refrigerator in an unheated space either. Food will not be kept properly cold in a refrigerator or freezer kept at temperatures below 60 degrees Fahrenheit, which can easily happen if you put an old refrigerator or freezer in an unheated laundry room or a garage.

Plugged In

Always plug a refrigerator or freezer into a 15-amp circuit with no other appliances. The outlet should accept a grounded three-prong plug. If you must use an extension cord, it should be a heavy-duty three-wire type.

How Much Food Is OK?

A refrigerator or freezer operates most efficiently when fully loaded, but be sure to leave enough space between items for air to circulate. Don't cover vents that send cold air to the refrigerator compartment.

Temperature Maintenance

Keep a refrigerator between 34 F and 40 F. To check it, put a refrigerator thermometer in the center of the food compartment overnight. If you can't maintain this temperature by adjusting the refrigerator's thermostat, check for clogged coils under the refrigerator or on the back of the unit. Keep a freezer close to zero degrees. To check it, put the thermometer on top of a carton of frozen food and leave it for a day. Note: if ice cream is firmly solid without being brick hard, the temperature is fine.

Drain Cleaning

Clean the drain system in a self-defrosting refrigerator. The drain holes are at the bottom of the refrigerator and freezer compartments. Insert a piece of stiff wire to unclog the drain, then flush it with water from a basting syringe. Wash the drain pan in soapy water.

Gasket Seal

To see if a refrigerator door gasket is forming a tight seal, close the door on a dollar bill at several points. Look for slight resistance when you pull the dollar out. Or put a 150-watt outdoor floodlight in the compartment and look for a light leak in a darkened room. Try the light at different angles with the floodlight's cord coming out a side you are not checking.

You can often fix a small crack in the gasket around a refrigerator door with silicone caulk. Use your fingers to roll back the gasket and apply the caulk to the inside. Be careful not to apply too much. Use only a caulk whose label's fine print indicates it's safe for contact with food.

Power Tips

A tripped circuit breaker could turn the food in your freezer into a spoiled mess before you discover it. To avoid this, put a low-wattage night light in the same outlet as the freezer. You'll see immediately if it's off.

If your area has power outages, keep your freezer full, packing empty spaces with packets of picnic-cooler artificial ice or plastic bottles of frozen water.

Defrosting

Have an old refrigerator that must be defrosted manually? To help melt the frost in the freezer, reverse the airflow on a canister vacuum and direct the stream of warm air into the emptied freezer.

Clean and disinfect birdfeeders

When bird feeders get contaminated with bacteria or viruses, they become dangerous contact points in the spread of disease, say the experts at Rubbermaid Specialty Products Inc.

They recommend taking the feeder down and giving it a thorough inspection and wash with soap, water and household bleach, followed by a monthly washing schedule. Hummingbird feeders, which are used to dispense a sugar rich liquid food, need to be washed every two or three days in very hot water and rinsed thoroughly.)

Seed hulls that collect under feeders can be equally dangerous in transmitting an infection among birds; rake up the winter collection of hulls now, and make it a point to give the area under your feeder a periodic cleanup.

Here are a few suggestions from Rubbermaid to make your bird feeding even more enjoyable;

Take your feeder down for cleaning and give it a critical examination with an eye toward repair or replacement. Look for leaks, rust, rot and spots where seed can be trapped.

Don't stop feeding wild birds when the weather turns warm. Birds will continue visiting their accustomed winter feeding spots even after natural foods, such as seeds and insects, become plentiful. In fact, when birds come to depend on the feeder, feeding should continue year round.

Always store bird seed in a sealed rodent proof container. Mice and rats can carry bird diseases, even if they don't get infected themselves.

REAL ESTATE

Pesky squirrel's are always looking for a handout, and they can be ingenious in reaching a bird feeder unless it's protected by a well designed squirrel guard.

Fundraiser in Wilmington for DiLeo

A fundrasier to assist well known local realtor Sheila DiLeo will be held this Friday evening, July 12th at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Wilmington.

Ms DiLeo has been fighting a very courageous fight against cancer and the expenses of the disease have caused great burden to her and her family.

An eight member group of realtors from the Eastern Middlesex Board of Realtors decided to help her out and came up with Friday's gala event to raise monies.

The evening will include entertainment, a silent auction and other fund-raising activities.

Ms. DiLeo had been diagnosed with breast cancer a number of years ago but appeared to be on her way to recovery following her five year check.

This past June she received the bad news that a brain tumor had developed. Her prognosis is uncertain but the expenses that go with that disease are very evident.

Because of her immense courage in fighting the disease and other personal problems including the recent death of her husband of 24 years, the committee felt she was very deserving of assistance.

Persons interested in attending the affair may call Pat DeWolfe at Colonial Manor Realty at (617) 944-6300.

FREE OVER THE PHONE MARKET EVALUATION WITH A GUARANTEE!

If you are thinking of selling your home within the next 12 months, why not get an approximation of the market value of your property . . . right over the phone?

It's simple . . . call our office at 944-6060 and answer a few questions about the type, style, lot size, taxes and amenities of your home. With this information we will do a Market Analysis and call you back promptly.

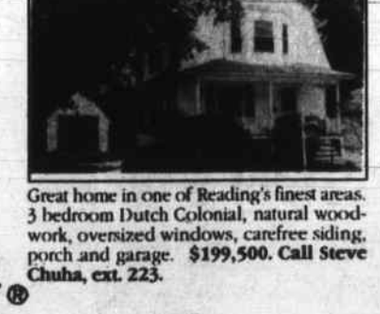

Of course, a more aecurate analysis of your property's value will require us to do an interior inspection of your home to check for the quality of finishes, room layout and several other factors.

This inspection has several other advantages too! Primarily we can advise you about what repairs to do or not to do! Often owners think they must do a lot more work than they really need to . . . but it's important to do the right things that will attract the buyer's attention!

A FIX-UP GUARANTEE

If we can't recommend after our inspection at least three fix-up ideas to you that you haven't thought of, we'll take $100 off the commission when the property sells!

Your home: Q & A

We are about to redecorate our entire home and I'm told that we should start with the carpet selection, then draperies and wallcoverings. Is this true?

Because it provides a unifying focus that ties together walls, window treatments and furnishings, carpet may be the single most important element used in interior decoration.

The most common carpet construction is called tufting. The tufting machine pierces the carpet backing material with loops of yarn which form the carpet pile. If the loops of yarn are uniform in size and height, the carpet is a level-loop pile. Berber styles are level-loop carpets that have tight loops and maximum fiber density. Carpet with loops of uneven height is called multi-level loop. If some of the loops are cut and the carpet height is even, it's called cut loop. If some of the loops are intact and some are cut, but the pile height is uneven, the pile is called random shear.

If all carpet pile loops are cut and form a uniform one-half-inch high pile, the carpet is called Saxony. A Saxony pile that's more than one-half-inch high and less dense may be called velvet, plush or textured plush. A carpet that has a mixture of straight tufts with twisted or curled tufts is called random frieze. Friezes or twists, with their curled tufts, form a resilient textured pile that resists matting, doesn't show footprints and is sometimes referred to as trackless. The most durable carpets are the loop-pile styles — a good choice for high traffic areas.

Density and weight also help determine carpet durability. Density refers to the number of fibers found in 1 square inch of carpet, and is referred to as either stitches per inch (spi) or stitches per 3 inches. The minimum spi for residential carpeting should be 9 to 10. Berbers should have a minimum of 5 to 6 spi and level-loop or commercial carpets should have 10-12 spi.

When selecting carpet, check for tightness of fibers. Bend the carpet sample so it forms a 90 angle and check how much backing material you can see. The less visible the backing, the tighter the fibers and the more durable the carpet.

Also check the carpet's pile yarn weight. Select a carpet that has no less than a 40-ounce pile weight (higher pile weight is better) for Saxonys, plushes or berbers. Note that pile weight refers to the weight of the carpet pile only. The total weight of the carpet, which includes the pile plus the backing, will also be listed.

The carpet specifications will also list the type of fiber used in the carpet construction. This may be shown as pile content, pile yarn or simply as pile. The pile content is also an important guide to carpet durability and maintenance.

Carpet yarn may be nylon, olefin, polyester, polypropylene or natural fibers such as wool or cotton. The most durable carpets are made with olefin fibers. Carpets made with pure olefin may feel rough to the touch, however. Berber carpets are also available in olefin/nylon blends or in 100 percent nylon construction. The olefin blends or pure nylon fibers feel softer than pure olefin. Nylon fibers are also durable, easy to clean and they resist matting.
